AFFIDAVIT OF ALISON CHUNG

I, Alison Chung, being first duly sworn, hereby depose and state as follows:

Background and Qualifications

1. I am the President of TeamWerks, a technology consulting firm with a focus on computer forensics. Our offices are at 111 East Wacker Drive, Suite 1200, Chicago, Illinois.

2. Before I founded TeamWerks in 1997, I worked in the technology sector for over fifteen years. For ten years, I was Chief Information Officer at the law firm of Jenner & Block. I had strategic and operational responsibility for all hardware and software in their four offices. Before working for Jenner & Block, I was Technology Consulting Manager in the Management Consulting Services Division of Price Waterhouse, working on software systems, mainframe hardware and software as well as personal computer systems. Prior to my experience at Price Waterhouse, I was a mainframe communications specialist with IBM, working in their national accounts division. My first job was as an assembler language programmer at Commonwealth Edison Company. I have a B.A. in Mathematics from Wellesley College, an M.A. in Mathematics from Stanford University and an M.B.A. from the University of Chicago. A copy of my curriculum vitae is attached to this document as Exhibit A.

3. TeamWerks has examined hard drives and removable media for a variety of litigated matters in which computer forensics were used to gather electronic evidence. Our examination process includes identifying, acquiring, preserving, restoring and analyzing electronic data while establishing, maintaining and documenting a chain of custody for the data during the time it is in our hands. We draw upon our experience of having worked with operating systems, hard drives, file structures, application programs and storage devices on a range of mainframes, mini-computers and personal computer systems to perform these tasks.

Work Provided

4. TeamWerks has been engaged by LaSalle Financial Service, Inc. ("LFS"), through its counsel, to provide computer forensics services for this matter. At their request, our computer forensics team received three computers identified as:

5. TeamWerks (either myself or a TeamWerks consultant under my supervision) imaged the contents of the hard drives on each of these laptops in the TeamWerks forensic lab on December 10 and 11, 2007. We performed bit-for-bit copies of each hard drive to ensure that we acquired all of the data on the hard drive, and we videotaped our acquisition process. We used the resulting images for review and analysis.

6. As part of the imaging process, we connected the hard drive of each laptop computer to devices on our acquisition systems to ensure that the imaging process would not alter in any way the contents of the hard drive. We verified that our actions had not changed the data by running instructions that checked the data's integrity. This verification process helps to ensure that the images remain unaltered, that the images are verified, and that their date and time stamps are unchanged by our processes.

Deletion of Internet Access

7. All three laptops I examined show access to the internet marketing service www.constantcontact.com. (See Exhibit B) There was no other forensic evidence available relating to use of constantcontact.com on the Kibiloski Laptop and minimal forensic evidence relating to the use of constantcontact.com on the Swanson and Brymer Laptops. Typically, when a user accesses a website, such as constantcontact.com, a hard drive will retain a large amount of forensic information related to such access. For example, see Exhibit C, which demonstrates the types of forensic information typically found after an internet website is accessed, and where the user did not engage in a deliberate cleansing of the hard drive and overwriting of forensic data.

8. My investigation into the Kibiloski Laptop revealed that the data directory on the Kibiloski Laptop was virtually wiped clean. There is minimal data in the data directory of the Kibiloski Laptop. (See Exhibit D) There used to be data in this directory because the hard drive recorded links to files.

9. All three laptops I examined showed access to zedo.com, another internet based marketing website. (See Exhibits E, F, and G) As was the case with the Kibiloski Laptop and forensic information about the use of constantcontact.com, all three laptops have minimal forensic information remaining about the use of zedo.com. This leads me to conclude that the information was deliberately removed from the hard drives on the three laptops I examined.

10. All three laptops I examined had the vast majority of all of their temporary internet files deleted on December 7, 2007. (See Exhibit H) Typically, temporary internet files are retained for a week or longer. Temporary internet files are typically only deleted on a systematic basis, as was done here, when either a user has a shortage of space on their hard drive or to conceal internet activity. Each of the laptops I examined had excess hard drive capacity.

11. Based on the observations set forth in paragraphs 7 through 10 above, it is my conclusion that a software application was employed to deliberately wipe and overwrite information and data which existed on the Kibiloski Laptop.

Deletion of Information in the Recycling Bin

12. On December 7, 2007, the “Recycling Bin” on the Kibiloski Laptop was emptied. (See Exhibit I)

13. The Recycle Bin in Microsoft Windows provides a safety net when deleting files or folders. When a user deletes any of these items from a hard disk, Windows places it in the Recycle Bin. Items in the Recycle Bin remain there until the user empties the Recycling Bin and permanently deletes them from the computer. Items in the Recycle Bin still take up hard disk space and can be undeleted or restored back to their original location.

Use of External Electronic Media Storage Devices

14. Two different Blackberry devices were used with the Kibiloski Laptop, including one that was first connected to the Kibiloski Laptop on November 20, 2007. A Blackberry typically contains, among other things, contact information from the user’s computer network. In addition, a Blackberry can be used to store and transport files containing other information.

15. One USB external storage device was connected to the Swanson Laptop and labeled Drive E:. The device was accessed with Windows Explorer. This activity suggests that the user likely “dragged” files from the file tree on the laptop and copied them to Drive E:.

16. Three USB external storage devices were connected to the Brymer Laptop. One device was an Apple iPod. An iPod is, essentially, a hard drive that is used to store information including, typically, music files. There was, however, no evidence of music files on the Brymer hard drive. The other two devices were labeled: (1) USB Flash Memory, and (2) ATCS05 USB Device.

17. USB storage devices are typically small in size, highly portable, and can hold mass amounts of electronic data.

Installation of a CD Burner for Data Transfer

18. According to an email I retrieved from the Kibiloski Laptop, Kibiloski received an offer of employment from his new employer on or about November 19, 2007. (See Exhibit J) On November 20, 2007, a CD burning software application developed by Roxio was installed on the Kibiloski Laptop. (See Exhibit K) This software can be used to transfer data directly from a laptop hard drive to a CD, which is highly portable and easily concealed. Other than minimal installation information, there is no other forensic data relating to the use of the Roxio CD burner on the Kibiloski Laptop. I would expect to see forensic data relating to an application of this sort absent efforts to destroy such data.

Copying of Confidential Information

19. Shortly before leaving LFS, the following files were created from the Kibiloski Laptop within five minutes of each other: Nap South Fixed Book.htm; Westmont Fixed Book.htm; Plainfield Fixed Book.htm; Bolingbrook Fixed Book.htm; Glen Ellyn South.htm; Lisle Fixed Book.htm; Naperville North Fixed Book.htm; Glen Ellyn North Fixed Book.htm. I have been informed that these files contain confidential customer and LFS account information related to certain fixed annuity accounts sold through LFS.

20. By creating .htm files, a user can subsequently access the files outside of LFS's offices and outside LFS's computer system, i.e., access to the files could occur without ever having to connect to LFS's server again. Thus, any access to these files after their creation would go undetected by LFS.

21. Based on the short amount of time between access to each of these files from the Kibiloski Laptop, it is likely that the access was solely for copying the information contained in the files.

Recovered Files

22. As noted, most of the temporary internet files on all three laptops I examined were destroyed. I was, however, able to recover some files from the laptops.

23. Exhibit L contains a series of documents containing LFS client information (e.g., names, social security numbers, account balances, addresses, phone numbers, etc.) accessed through LFS's internet computer interface "Pandia" from the Brymer Laptop on December 7, 2007.

24. Exhibit M contains a series of documents containing LFS client information (e.g., names, social security numbers, account balances, addresses, phone numbers, etc.) accessed through LFS's internet computer interface "Pandia" from the Kibiloski Laptop on December 7, 2007.

25. Exhibit N contains a series of documents containing LFS client information (e.g., names, social security numbers, account balances, addresses, phone numbers, etc.) accessed through LFS's internet computer interface "Pandia" from the Swanson Laptop on December 5, 2007.

26. Exhibit O contains an email from PLANCO/The Hartford to Brymer attaching a client list containing client names, contract numbers, and product descriptions obtained from the Hartford. I was able to recover this email because the Brymer Laptop retained replicas of emails on the hard drive.

Investigation Continues

27. My investigation into the three laptops is ongoing. I reserve the right to supplement or amend this affidavit should the need arise.

FURTHER AFFIANT SAYETH NOT.

Curriculum Vitae for Alison Chung

Key Areas of Expertise

Ms. Chung has been the President of TeamWerks since 1997. She is a seasoned technology professional with extensive experience in a variety of platforms and operating systems including mainframes, mini-computers and personal computers. She has managed a broad variety of assignments including strategic information systems planning; client/server strategy, planning and implementation; analysis and development of automation strategies; assessment of procedures and controls in a data processing environment; design and implementation of user acceptance testing procedures; and design and implementation of litigation and practice support systems.

Prior Professional Experience

Jenner & Block (Chicago) Chief Information Officer

- Planned and implemented a major conversion of an mini-computer based Time and Billing system from Wang Informatics hardware and software. This system included all accounting modules plus conflict of interest and file-room applications. Worked with multiple vendors to coordinate a smooth cutover involving different releases of software and multiple platforms.
- Performed in-depth requirements definition and implementation for the automation of manual procedures within a large law firm of 400+ attorneys after performing strategic information systems planning based on the firm's long-term business goals.
- Founded and staffed a Technology Services Department with forty technical support, training, documentation and programming individuals in four cities.
- Planned, implemented and managed the implementation of client/server systems supporting 1200+ IBM 486-based PS/2 systems, three AS/400s, three RISC/6000s, multiple Token Ring networks running PC/Support, Netsoft gateways, Netware 4.10, all connected by intelligent Bytex hubs and Cisco routers.
- Evaluated the use of Windows 95 and Windows NT in a client/server environment.
- Managed the installation of Windows Version 3.11 graphical user interface with integration to AS/400 files for attorney front-end applications.
- Managed the design, installation, testing and implementation of more than sixty personal computer and network-based applications including the integration of Xerox and Hewlett-Packard printers with AS/400s and RISC/6000s.
- Designed and implemented IBM 9746 IDNX wide area network processors using dynamic allocation of bandwidth for voice and data applications in four cities.

Price Waterhouse (Chicago)
Manager, Management Consulting Services

- Performed strategic information systems planning and requirements definition for a large Chicago-based law firm.
- Installed CICS-based trust fund systems for a State Department of Corrections inmate accounts. Project scope encompassed customizing and installing software as well as writing detailed user-training manual for the Trust Fund system.
- Performed a requirements definition project for the largest social service agency for retarded individuals in the State of Illinois.
- Evaluated the standalone computer environment for a consortium of hospitals, resulting in a recommendation of a network with shared peripherals.
- Performed disaster recovery planning for the Chicago Tribune Company. Assessed the risk associated with key applications within the company.

IBM Corporation (Chicago)
Systems Engineer, National Accounts

- Developed and implemented a long-term office systems strategy at the largest IBM account in the Midwest region.
- Designed and implemented DISOSS and integrated it into the SNADS, DIA and DCA architecture for mainframe communications.
